Dedication

We, the graduating

Seniors of 1961,

do dedicate our annual

to our parents and to our English teacher, Mrs. Snittger.

The lessons taught by the patient guidance of those who love us will never be forgotten. We thank God for their influence on our lives in the past and pray that we may live up to their expectations in the future.

Class History

In the year of '48 two wagon trains started their journey Westward. One wagon train left from Allison; the other one from Bristow. The Allison wagonmaster was Mrs. Harold Poppen. The passengers were Patty Jackson, George Betsinger, JoAnn Endelman, Helen Stirling, Elizabeth Uhlenhopp, Sheryol Werner, Dennis Hart, Roger Heeren, Steve Codner, Douglas Poppen, Darwin Fecht, David Rottink, Gordon Reints, Darla Miller, Bonnie Aukes, Beverly Bauman, Jim Shipman, Lois Busch, John Wettering, and Max VanRaden. The Bristow wagonmaster was Mrs. Berrier. The passengers were Bob Wubbena, Jimmy Miller, Louise Truax, Lynn Miller, Benny DeVries, Jerald VanHeiden, Russell Ubben, Fern Fox, Gary Witte, and Darrell Prange.

Our first stop was caused by a broken axle. When we journeyed on again, Miss DiGregorio became our new wagonmaster. She brought with her Roland Patton, Steve Tiernan, Johnnie Mehmen, Junior Heyenga, and Carol Stirling. The Bristow train also started with a new master, Miss Azeltine. She brought with her Jimmy Nuss and Hilda Terrill. Jimmy Miller stayed behind to visit his aunt.

A great dust storm caused our second stop. During the storm the Allison train lost their wagonmaster, Patty Jackson, Johnnie Mehmen, and Ronald Patton. After the storm a lone wagon came with Miss Darby, who became the new wagonmaster. With her were Sharon Heinz and Lonnie Hinders. Bristow kept its same wagonmaster and Ruth Hufford and Eddie Thompson came aboard.

Our next stop was made to fill our canteens at Lake Arrowhead. Mrs. Harold Poppen, our former wagonmaster, rejoined us to lead us Westward. From a small settlement nearby Ronnie Westendorf, Stanley Menken, and Bruce Whitaker joined us. From the Bristow train Miss Azeltine, Ruth Hufford, Benny DeVries, Jerald VanHeiden, and Jimmy Nuss decided to settle at Lake Arrowhead. Mrs. Fox became the new wagonmaster.

The fourth stop brought the trains to Fort Apache to get supplies. Ruth Endelman, Bob Janssen, Bill Janssen, and Richard Adelmund joined the Allison train. At the Fort the Bristow wagonmaster, Mrs. Fox, decided to stay and Miss Nettleton became the new wagonmaster. Wayne Kramer and Kathy Benesh decided to join the Bristow train also.

An attack by Indians caused us to stop for a fifth time. During the confusion Elizabeth Uhlenhopp, John Wettering, and our wagonmaster were lost from the Allison train. Our stand-in wagonmaster, Mrs. Huck, took over. The Bristow train lost Kathy Benesh, Gary Witte, and the wagonmaster. Mrs. Weiland, their stand-in, took over. After the battle the Bristow train found Myrna Jungling.

Our next stop was at a small town. The Allison wagonmaster, Mrs. Huck, decided not to stay. Mrs. Alice Harms became the new wagonmaster. Bette Dralle, Evon Hartman, Kenneth Alberts, and Ronnie Clemens joined the train. The Bristow train lost its master also and Mrs. Marilyn Harms took over. No new passengers joined the Bristow train.

We stopped for the seventh time to pick up several new passengers. The Allison train gained Rosella Lindeman and Miriam Tjebkes. Mrs. Griffith became the new master, but became ill and Mrs. Stephens took her place. Since David Rottink's wagon broke down, he decided to stay behind. The Bristow train kept the same master and gained Ray Bramer.

The next stop was made at a thriving mining town, Virginia City. Mr. Brown joined the Allison train as master. Betty Siemers, Mari Ann Menken, JoAnne Miller, Darlene Hahn, Ray Rinnels, Patricia Cramer, Delvin Arjes, Becky Feltus, Gene Lindaman, and Gerald Schrage joined the train going West. Mrs. Merfeld joined the Bristow train as the new master, but Russell Ubben and Hilda Terrill decided to stay in Virginia City.

On the ninth stop Bristow decided to merge and form the Allison-Bristow wagon train. The Bristow passengers were Darrell Prange, Louise Truax, Bob Wubbena, Fern Fox, Myrna Jungling, Lynn Miller, Wayne Kramer, and Ray Bramer. A small group of wagons also decided to join us and they were Barbara Nuss, Janice Heuer, Shirley Kollmann, George DeWitt, Gary Miller, and Marietta VanRaden. Sheryol Werner, Lois Brockway, and Delvin Arjes decided to stay behind and start a small settlement.

Our tenth and eleventh stops were progressive. We did lose Betty Dralle, JoAnne Miller, Ray Bramer, Rosella Lindeman, Beverly Bauman, And Pat Cramer; Jerry Davis came and left during our tenth stop. Ray Rinnels and Richard Adelmund left us during our eleventh stop and Barbara Nuss at the end of the eleventh. Lois Brockway joined us during our tenth stop but decided to leave again before we reached our final destination.

As the pioneers (pictured on the next five pages) met their final destination, they ventured into the different fields of their interest using the experience and knowledge gained from the adventurous trip while seeking their fame and fortune.

Girls In Second Win.

Evon Hartman's 25 points paced the Trojanettes to their second win of the season, a 43-38 decision over Clarksville.

The game was close throughout, but Allison held the lead at each quarter break. It was 22-18 at halftime, and 32-29 going into the final period.

Sharon Hartema was Clarksville's top scorer with 16, while Mary Sells tossed in 13 points.

Girls In Easy Win.

The Trojanettes picked up their first victory of the season, 61-37, and it came at the expense of Hudson, a team which has yet to win.

After a 14-10 first period, Allison came up with its best quarter of the season and raced away to a 37-21 halftime advantage. There was no doubt about the outcome after that.

Game scoring honors went to Kay Brandt who connected for 28 points. Teammates Evon Hartman and Janet Kruse had 19 and 11, respectively. A standout in the Allison had only three fieldgoals and four free throws in the game. Evon Hartman scored half of the Trojanette total, while Jamison fired in 25 counters for the winning sextet. The halftime score was 12-6.

The local teams do not see action again until December 2 when they go to New Hartford.

Edge Parkersburg.

Allison racked up its second Central Valley Conference victory last night by squeezing past Parkersburg, 53-51, in the Bristow gym. Only a few points separated the two teams throughout the contest. The Trojanettes' offense showed a marked improvement over the Dumont game, but they still went
